

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Contributors	xi
Introduction	1
Elsbeth H. Brown, Catherine Gudis, and Marina Moskowitz

Part I Designing Markets

1 Broadcasting Seeds on the American Landscape	9
Marina Moskowitz
2 The Importance of Being True Blue: The Du Pont Company and the Color Revolution	27
Regina Lee Blaszczyk
3 The Popular Front and the Corporate Appropriation of Modernism	51
Shannan Clark
4 Rationalizing Consumption: Lejaren à Hiller and the Origins of American Advertising Photography, 1913–1924	75
Elsbeth H. Brown
5 Art and Commerce: The Challenge of Modernist Advertising Photography	91
Patricia Johnston

Part II Business and the Politics of Difference, 1900–1930

6 “New York is Not America”: Immigrants and Tourists in Post–World War I New York	117
Angela M. Blake

- 7 "The First Thing Every Negro Girl Does": Black Beauty Culture,
Racial Politics, and the Construction of Modern Black
Womanhood, 1905–1925 143
Tiffany M. Gill
- 8 The Sentimental Work of Play: Manhood and the American
Toy Industry, 1900–1930 171
Woody Register

Part III Commerce and the Built Environment, 1900–1940

- 9 The Metropolitan Life Tower: Architecture and Ideology
in the Life Insurance Enterprise 199
Roberta Moudry
- 10 Architectures of Seduction: Intimate Apparel Trade Shows and Retail Department Design, 1920–1940 229
Jill Fields
- 11 The Architecture of Mobility: Outdoor Advertising and the Birth of the Strip 251
Catherine Gudis

Part IV Representation and Organizational Culture in Post–World War II United States

- 12 Postwar Sign, Symbol, and Symptom:
"The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit" 277
Anna Creadick
- 13 "Girls in Gray Flannel Suits": White Career Women in Postwar American Culture 295
Clark Davis
- 14 Ayn Rand and the Politics of Property 321
Andrew Hoberk

Afterword

- 15 Advertisements for Ourselves: Being and Time in a
Promotional Economy 343
Jean-Christophe Agnew
- Index* 365